eleventh day of the eleventh month, the time that World War I formally ended. He was worried that younger generations wouldn't understand this and his generation wouldn't be around for much longer to teach them. We must remember those from our current wars too."

I copied this from an article I read. It is important to remember this and to honor our veterans by wearing the poppy properly and supporting what it stands for.

FREEDOM ISN'T FREE

Do you ever stop to think
When you do just what you want
That you are exercising freedom
And freedom's not for flaunt.

Peter Marshall

Have you ever wondered why Veterans Day is on the 11th day of the 11th month and does not change? World War I ended on the 11th month on the 11th day at the 11th hour of that day. Many of us have ties to World War I. My uncle, Roland Trumbull, served in the United States Army in Europe during World War I. My great uncle, Lewis C. Lattin, served as an ambulance driver in Europe during World War I. Most families in this area have similar ties.

"Today I saw a man selling poppies stop a lady and asked if he could reposition her poppy. While doing so he told that lady she should always wear the poppy on her right side; the red represents the blood of all those who gave their lives, the black represents the mourning of those who didn't have their loved ones return home, and the green leaf represents the grass and crops growing and future prosperity after the war destroyed so much. The leaf should be positioned at 11 o'clock to represent the eleventh hour of the

It costs to have that freedom—
No, freedom isn't free!
It may mean some sacrifice
Like taxes or service for you and me.

It may mean military service
Whether here or over there,
It may take some time and effort
Supporting candidates who care.

You may have to speak out
When you see things that aren't right
Because true freedom takes some doing
And it's everybody's fight.

Study the real U.S. Constitution,
Not just what's interpreted by law
And compare it to the Bible,
Our forefathers knew what they saw.

Freedom's not a freebie,
It has to be well earned,
Maintaining it takes teamwork
So teach others what you've learned.

Apathy defeats freedom
Don't bury your head in the sand
You still have rights as an American
So take a "freedom" stand!

Between the Lines

And so a Century ends
Conclusion

A girl that I thought a lot of got married while I was in Japan with my Uncle Sam. I wrote to a lot of people, men, women, boys and girls, while I was in the army. The logic behind this was that if you wrote a lot you'd get some back. Nothing felt better when a long ways from home than to hear your name at mail call. One of the girls that I wrote to seemed like a good prospect for some personal visits when I got home, but she had trouble clearing her calendar for the one time I went to see her. Another faithful pen pal was just a true Christian friend and confidant. I had met her a couple years before going to the army and had even double dated on Fourth of July with her and a friend of mine. We continued to write when I got home, she had graduated in the spring before I got home from the army and was prepared to teach a country school the fall of 1946-47. Her folks only lived 40 or so miles from my home (over some of the worst roads that the sandhills of Nebraska had managed to blow together in the first half of a century) so I didn't get to visit very much. I had to borrow a vehicle for awhile while building a Model A Ford coupe from pieces I found all the way between Scottsbluff to the west and Spiegel's Chicago store to the east. In some of our conversations we seemed to agree that the most desirable partners were true friends, just like we had been for the last couple years. When it came time for Doris to get lined up to teach the next year, she managed to get hired at my old home school - remember that first schoolhouse that had been built of sod in 1908 and called Center Valley? Well this was the same old school, it had just outlived the first three buildings. Along in the early spring of 1947 we decided we just might be able to save money by getting married before school started in the fall (both by her living at home to teach and by me not having to travel that awful road to call on her). In April with a lot of help from my folks we were able to buy our present home at a ranch auction and in the securing of a 40-year government loan the agents allowed Doris to cosign with her maiden name. I'm not so sure this would fly today the way commitments mean so little. Anyway, I've certainly used a lot of words to say that we were
